Short support description	ICN brings together top-tier experience and knowledge of clinical trial centres from across the globe. Our mission is to enhance the global availability of high-quality clinical research centres and study sites by promoting and supporting the top-level services and proven capabilities of ICN and its members. Top priority is to enable for good and excellent sites to force up and for young study sites to build up their clinical research infrastructure. ICN members are committed to provide each other with effective and cutting edge capabilities and infrastructure for clinical research. All members of ICN are able to make use of the network's clinical research capabilities such as consultancy, training courses, workshops, online guidance documents and tools. In addition, ICN provides services and training courses to external investigators and research staff. ICN invites membership from high-quality clinical trial centres who adhere to ICH-GCP and other generally accepted international standards. ICN services range from people-based support (consulting, training, know-how transfer, staff exchange) to documents (concepts, checklists, SOPs, working instructions, etc.) and tools and technologies (software, registry build-up, etc.). Services are offered to support academic / investigator-initiated trials (IITs) as well as trials sponsored by the pharmaceutical and medical and biotech industries. ICN members can use any of the services in the ICN Service Portfolio. Non-ICN members, such as individual principal investigators, CTUs/CTCs, CROs and pharmaceutical companies may also use part of the ICN Service portfolio. For detailed information on conditions and/or pricing, inquiries can be sent to info@icn-connect.org .
