

One-stop-shop for Spanish Academia

Information and Communication Platform

The EC-funded Coordination and Support Action STARS is a collaboration between 18 European National Competent Authorities, 4 associate countries and the European Medicines Agency. The STARS project aims to reach out to medicine innovators in academia, tackle regulatory challenges and enhance the dialogue between academia and regulatory authorities.

From 1 to 30 September 2021, AEMPS is opening a one-stop-shop communication platform for Spanish academia exclusively, which displays a regulatory support activity to close a gap between their regulatory knowledge and the impact on the development of their products or technologies.

The one-stop-shop platform will be online for one month and it is the second pilot (Pilot II) within the STARS project. It is addressed to academic researchers who will be able to find general content about regulatory requirements, but also get into contact by sending their specific questions using a web-based contact sheet. Pilot II includes an Information Board where the researches will be able to find regulatory documents and information about the requirements for regulatory approval in Spain and in Europe, a Communication Board with contact details and an interactive contact form for queries as well as a Feedback Board to evaluate the success of this support activity.

The objective of this online platform test run is to enhance the communication and early dialogue and to facilitate informal exchange between the regulatory agencies and the researchers. This service is free of charge.

Please, be aware that this service is not a regulatory scientific advice

If you have questions about your project development or any questions after reviewing the information included within the Information Board please contact us by:

Filling in the Contact Sheet placed on the Communication Board or sending an email to: stars_pilot2@aemps.es

Pilot II is a limited offer from 1 to 30 September 2021

We are looking forward to your participation!

We are happy to support you!
